"Very few diamonds are smuggled into this country now, whatever may have been the case in former days." declared an agent of a large jewelry house who makes a yearly trip to Europe to purchase precious stones. "The amount that is brought in without duty is so small as to have no effect on the market. Uncut diamonds are not taxed. The duty on cut stones is but ten per cent. Amsterdam, Holland, is the great market for diamonds. Nearly all the New York dealers who import buy from that city. Eighty per cent, of the diamond cutting for the world is done in Amsterdam. Few small diamonds are cut in New York There are almost no facilities here for doing the work. The experienced cutters at Amsterdam can turp out the work cheaper than it can be done on this side of the water even when the customs duty is added to the rates paid the Holland manufacturers. Large diamonds, about three-quarters of a carat, are cut here, but most of this work is recutting for the changes in style of setting."

HAD TOO MUCH INTELLIGENCE. Usefulness of Marvelous Incubators Ended by "Scrap."

"Speaking about incubators," drawled old Jeff Weatherby, in the back of Jason's general store, "remains me of the wonderful chicken hatchers built by the Hains boys. Bill Hains invented the most- marvelous incubator ever seen in these parts. It not only hatched the chickens out, but it actually shielded the little chicks from a hawk just like an old hen. Then Pete Hains got busy and went one better. He built an incubator with a phonograph arrangement that would 'cluck-cluck' to the chicks and scratch up worms for

"Whew!" gasped the starch drummer. "I have heard a lot of yarns, but that is the limit. What became of these wonderful incubators?"

"Busted, stranger, busted all to bits. You see them thar incubators were so intelligent they spon grew jealous of one another and first thing you know there was a scrap to equal any game chicken fight that ever come off. When it was over both were only fit for the junk heap. Thanks, stranger, I'll take a cigar."

Surprise for Lodge-Keeper.

It was a former archbishop of York -Dr. Thomson-who appeared once in the role of coachman. He had attended an evening party, and, on leaving the house, discovered that his coachman was drunk. There apeared nothing for it but to drive home himself, and the archbishop, after placing the smiling but unconscious coachman inside the carriage, mounted the box and took the reins. The monotony of the homeward journey was broken by a wheel of the carriage coming into violent collision with a stone just outside the entrance to Bishopsthorpe. The lodge-keeper, unable to recognize the approaching figure in the darkness, called out cheerily: "Hallo, Bill, drunk again!-and blowed if you ain't got the old coek's hat on!" "It's the old cock himself," gravely responded his grace. San Francisco Ar-
